Outline Description	Chapel dedicated to St Nicholas
Property Description	The 17th century chapel dedicated to St Nicholas is reached through a rectangular parvis. The facade is characterised by a rectangular doorway enframed by a set of plain pilasters and supporting an entablature and a fine cornice. Above the doorway, the facade is adorned by a centrally placed arched window is set within a masonry moulding. The facade is enframed within a set of plain pilasters, headed by a plain architrave and crowned by a broken cornice. Centrally placed within the broken cornice is a belfry crowned by a cross. Flanking the doorway are two small windows at eye-level that serves for private prayers when the church is closed.
